Achoo the Monkey took his basket of hellos and started walking through the jungle.

Achoo was the jungle's hello deliverer.

MAGINK

He went to Sloth first. Sloth said, "Say hello for me to Bear. I miss his delicious honey."
"I will," Achoo said and put the hello in his basket and continued on his way.

MAGINE

He arrived at Giraffe's place.
"Say hello for me to Woodpecker.
I miss his pecking," said Giraffe.

"I will," Achoo said and put the hello in his basket and continued on his way.

He arrived at Elephant's place.

"Say hello for me to Rhino.

I miss playing in the water with him," said Elephant.

"I will," Achoo said and put the hello in his basket and continued on his way.

MAGINK

He arrived at Mouse's place.
"Say hello for me to Turtle.
I miss all his kindness," said Mouse.

"I will," Achoo said and put the hello in his basket and continued on his way.

His basket fell down sideways. The hellos were close to getting scattered all over the place. Achoo jumped up the tree.

MAGINIK

Wolf looked inside the basket
several times and asked angrily,

MAGINE

Why hasn't anyone said Hello to me?!

MAGINK

Then he kicked the basket and the basket flew up in the sky and the hellos were scattered everywhere.

Wolf circled around the tree a few times. He howled for a while, got tired, and then left.

What have you done?! you jumbled all of my hellos!

A large, textured tree trunk with a waterfall in the background. The tree trunk is dark brown with vertical lines, and the waterfall is a mix of orange and red. The background is a soft pink and white gradient.

Achoo was angry. He picked up the hellos and put them back into the basket.
Achoo had a thought and continued on his way again.

MAGINK

He delivered Elephant's hello to Bear. Bear was surprised.
"But why has Elephant said hello to me?! I'm not his friend."
Achoo scratched his head and said, "Well, maybe... maybe he wanted to become friends with you. That's not bad, is it?"
Bear thought for a while and said, "No. No. It's not bad.

A new friend! That's great!"

Then he picked up a jar of honey and went to Elephant's place.

Achoo delivered Owl's hello to Woodpecker. Woodpecker was surprised. "But we're not talking. We just had a fight yesterday. He sleeps in the bright daylight and tells me not to peck. As if he can't sleep at night. Why doesn't he sleep at night like everybody else?!"

Achoo scratched his head and said, "Well, maybe... maybe he wanted to make up with you. That's not bad, is it?"

Woodpecker said, "No. No! That's great." Then she quietly jumped off the tree that Owl was sleeping on and went to another tree.

An artistic illustration of a pond. The water is depicted with vibrant blue and green ripples. In the center, two turtles are swimming, their shells showing brown and orange patterns. The pond is surrounded by lush green foliage, including large leaves and reeds. The overall style is soft and painterly.

Achoo delivered Turtle's hello to Mole. Mole was surprised.
He let Turtle hatch her eggs under her hill.

Achoo delivered Sloth's hello to Giraffe. Giraffe was surprised.

He licked all the moss on Sloth's body and cleaned him up. From that day on, Achoo always jumbled up the hellos first and then delivered them.

Everyone was happy with this...
